Main theme: ICA Expert Group on Emergency Management

Objective: In every geographical area of the world, there are disasters created by man and nature. While each organization plans for evacuating buildings, protecting people and property, the same care and attention to planning should be placed on the records and cultural history. If information is an important asset, the planning for the protection of the records prior to a disaster is paramount. This half day workshop will be conducted by 3 members of the Expert Group on Emergency Management and Disaster Preparedness. It will cover risk assessment/mitigation, disaster plans and supplies, disaster team planning, salvage priorities, response techniques, recovery efforts and resources. By the end of the workshop, attendees (Archivists and Cultural Heritage Managers) will have gained knowledge in disaster management planning and have awareness of proper techniques for response and recovery.

Main theme: ICA Expert Group on Archival Description (EGAD)

Objective: Members of the ICA Expert Group on Archival Description (EGAD) will conduct a half-day workshop on the draft standard Records in Contexts – Conceptual Model (RiC-CM). The EGAD released a draft RiC-CM for community comment in the last quarter of 2016. Individuals and groups from 19 countries submitted 62 sets of comments. The workshop will cover, among other topics, an overview of the draft standard, development assumptions and methods, an in-depth look at the major components of description, the perceived benefits for preservation and access to records, and expectations and concerns about transitioning from the four existing ICA description standards to RiC-CM. Workshop attendees (Processing archivists, reference archivists, and managers in archives with responsibility for the processing of records) will acquire a broad understanding of RiC-CM, its intended objectives and benefits, and the knowledge necessary to think about strategies for implementing it.
