

SOCIAL NETWORKS AND ARCHIVAL CONTEXT

ICA /ALA Meeting. Mexico City, 2017

Daniel Pitti, University of Virginia | Kelly Spring & Jimmy Zavala, University of California, Irvine

Session Overview

- Description and history of SNAC Cooperative (Daniel)
- Governance (Kelly)
- History Research Tool (Jimmy)
- Editing User Interface (Kelly)

SNAC Cooperative

Archival Records

- Record: Linguistic, symbolic, or graphic information represented in any persistent form, on any durable carrier, by any method, by an Agent in the course of life or work events and Activities.
- Records document (are evidence of) people living and working together
- The lives and work of people, and the records created by them constitute a vast network of interrelated people and documents: a social document network

Description of Archival Records

- Archival descriptive dominated by using one provenance-based apparatus that combines/intermixes context description and record description: the finding aid
 - Creators are documented in detail
 - Many individuals and groups documented in the records are also referenced in description (as access points or informally)
- Archival description documents interrelations among people and records
- A vast social-document network connecting the past to the present to the future
- To date, interrelations have been implicitly rather than explicitly documented
- SNAC makes the social and document interrelations explicit

Rationale for Cooperative

- The corporate body, person, or family (CPF) document in the holdings of one repository is often documented in the holdings of another repository
- Research, identify, and describe the CPF entity once, and shared by all: economy of cooperatively curating the data
- Link the people descriptions to one another and to record descriptions: build the social-document network
- An international, Internet-based “linked archival authority system”
- Research economy
 - Integrated access to distributed historical resources
 - Expand the context and understanding of the records by revealing the social networks

History: Research & Demonstration 2010-2015

- From R&D to Cooperative Program
- Funding: NEH (2010-12), IMLS (2011-2014) and Mellon (2012-2015)
- R&D Partners
 - University of Virginia, Institute for Advanced Technology in the Humanities
 - University of California, Berkeley School of Information
 - California Digital Library (University of California)

Objectives

- Demonstrate that data describing people in existing archival description can be used to ...
 - Address the challenge of finding/discovering/locating/understanding distributed historical resources and ...
 - Reveal the social-document network implicit in the description and ...
 - Lay the foundation for an international cooperative for centrally maintaining the biographical/historical descriptions

Data Sources

- 2.25M WorldCat archival descriptions (MARC21)
- Nearly 190,000 EAD-encoded finding aids, primarily from US and UK, though some French
- 300,000 British Library authority records
- U.S. National Archives and Records Administration authority records
- Agency descriptions from Smithsonian Institution Archives/New York State Archives
- And more ...

Methods and Processing

- Extract/Assemble/Migrate EAC-CPF (archival standard) records from existing archival description
 - Extracting both creators and referenced CPF names
- Match EAC-CPF records against one another and against existing authority records (Virtual International Authority File (VIAF))
 - Enhance EAC-CPF by normalizing entries, adding alternative entries, titles, “same as” links (VIAF)
- Create a prototype historical resource and access system
 - Social networks in which people lived and worked
 - Integrated access to distributed archival resources
 - Access to other resources by and about (publications, other artifacts)

The Identity Resolution Challenge

- Different names for the same person
 - Different people with the same names
 - Names are weak identifiers
 - A challenge for computers
 - A challenge for people
- Identity must be based on evidence and as much as possible: names, dates, places ...

Extraction Results

- Original Source Records: 6,719,064
 - 4,653,365 Persons
 - 1,868,448 Corporate Bodies
 - 197,251 Families
- Merged Records: 3,741,262
 - 2,466,425 persons
 - 1,077,588 corporate bodies
 - 197,249 families

Establishing the Cooperative: 2015-2019

- Funding: Mellon Foundation 2015-2019
- Two primary objectives
 - Social
 - Administration
 - Community governance
 - A growing team of trained editors
 - Business model
 - Technological
 - Transform R&D platform into maintenance platform
 - An editing interface for manually creating, revising, linking descriptions
 - A History Research Tool for researchers
 - Collaborative Ingest Tool for importing large sets of data

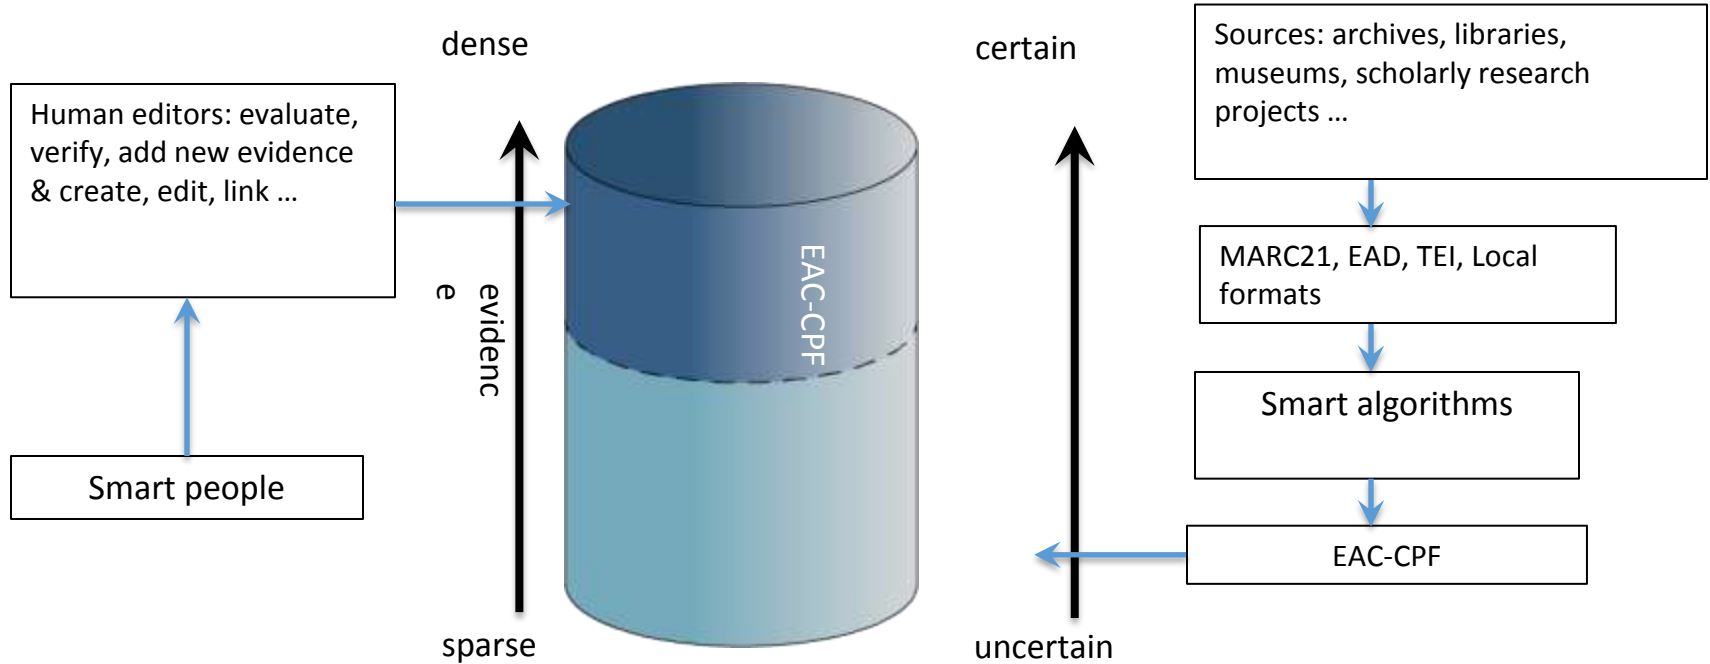

Current Focus of Work

- Developing capacity to increase membership
- Training editors, training trainers of editors:
 - Real and virtual classroom
 - Self-paced online modules
- Collaborative Ingest Tools
 - Enable new data contributors to assist in improving the quality of the data before import
 - Enable new contributors to assist in Identity Resolution
 - Enable new data contributors to integrate persistent identifiers into local description of archival records

Going Forward: 2017-2019

- Continue both the social and technological development, including making both the editing and research interfaces available in other languages
- As we build capacity, recruit new members
- Increase members of all kinds, including international members

The screenshot displays a web interface for the SNAC R&D project. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the 'snac' logo, a search icon, and links for 'About' and 'Login'. Below this is the main title 'Social Networks and Archival Context'. A search bar is present with a dropdown menu set to 'All Types' and a 'Search' button. The main content area features a grid of ten historical portraits, each with a caption and a source attribution. The portraits are arranged in two rows of five. The first row includes portraits of Okakura Kakuzo, Ramos Arizpe Miguel, Dietzgen Joseph, Pedro Celestino Negrete, and William H. Smith. The second row includes portraits of Henry Bosse, an elderly man with a beard, a woman in a dark dress, a man in a military uniform, and a man in a cap.

Biographical History

1 Octavio Paz was born in 1914 in Mexico City. On his father's side, his grandfather was a prominent liberal intellectual and one of the first authors to write a novel with an expressly Indian theme. Thanks to his grandfather's extensive library, Paz came into early contact with literature. Like his grandfather, his father was also an active political journalist who, together with other progressive intellectuals, joined the agrarian uprisings led by Emiliano Zapata.

3 Paz began to write at an early age, and in 1937, he travelled to Valencia, Spain, to participate in the Second International Congress of Anti-Fascist Writers. Upon his return to Mexico in 1938, he became one of the founders of the journal, Taller (Workshop), a magazine which signaled the emergence of a new generation of writers in Mexico as well as a new literary
